WRITING BY THE LAKE

YOUR LIFE STORIES SEMINAR

Tuesdays, 1-3 pm, October 8, 15, 22 and 29
Glen Rowan House, Lake Forest College

DR. AARON GREENBERG

Professor, Lake Forest College and School of the Art Institute of Chicago

Have you ever wanted to tell and preserve the stories of your life but weren't sure where to start? Maybe you've begun but need guidance to refine and publish your work. Experienced and aspiring writers alike can get to the next level with this memoir-focused creative nonfiction writing seminar designed for anyone ready to dive into life writing.

The small-group seminar blends traditional and innovative methods and encourages student collaboration. Students will meet for four two-hour class sessions, and each will receive an end-of-term writing project evaluation, as well as an individual "Next Steps" conference with Dr. Greenberg.

Dr. Aaron Greenberg founded Biograph, a life writing and publishing company. He served on the Core Faculty of Northwestern University Feinberg School of Medicine's Bioethics Clinical Scholars Program and currently teaches at Lake Forest College and the School of the Art Institute of Chicago. Besides dozens of private (auto)biographies for families and businesses, Dr. Greenberg's scholarly publications include "Reviving Vitalism in King Lear," in Shakespeare's Things (Routledge), "Escape to Impersonality: Personas in H.G. Wells' Experiment in Autobiography," in Persona Studies, and "Postcolonial Biopower and AutoBiography in Life & Times of Michael K," forthcoming in a/b: Auto/Biography Studies.
